PHS Job 3171

A lovely family in Bromley, London, is seeking an experienced Live-in Housekeeper/Cook. The household comprises one principal and her two children — one of which who is not always resident— alongside an elderly relative. The role requires a respectful, discreet, and adaptable professional to maintain a warm, welcoming environment. The previous housekeeper has served the family for over ten years and is retiring, leaving a well-managed home with established routines. The ideal candidate will be child- and elderly-friendly, with excellent domestic management skills, able to run errands, manage laundry and wardrobe care for fine fabrics, and prepare simple, nutritious meals for the family.

Bromley is a leafy, family-oriented area in South London, offering excellent schools, local amenities, and convenient transport links into Central London. The property itself is a spacious seven-bedroom house spread across three floors. The successful candidate will have private accommodation, including a bedroom with en suite bathroom on a separate floor, ensuring comfort and privacy while remaining accessible to the household as required.

The role is live-in and involves four full working days per week, from 7:30am to 6:30pm, providing approximately 44 hours weekly. Duties include daily housekeeping of frequently used rooms and maintenance cleaning of others, wardrobe management and laundry for the household, and preparation of healthy, simple meals. The household also employs a cleaner who attends the property twice a week, assisting with deep cleaning and heavier tasks, which lightens the daily workload for the full-time professional.

The Housekeeper/Cook will be responsible for school runs for the teenager, occasional errands such as dry cleaning and shopping, and liaising with the PA to arrange household maintenance or contractor visits. The position requires an organised, proactive, and personable individual who can work independently while maintaining a professional and approachable presence in the home.
